Peace on Earth Film Festival at Chicago, Illinois, United States

Join us again this year as we go as a group to opening night of the The Peace On Earth Film Festival. Peace on Earth Film Festival (POEFF) has been established to celebrate and encourage the work of independent films from around the world on the themes of peace, nonviolence, social justice and an eco-balanced world. POEFF is a not-for-profit film festival whose primary objective is to raise an awareness of peace, nonviolence, social justice and an eco-balanced world, as possibilities, by bringing attention to independent films from around the world. Through the power of motion pictures, POEFF endeavors to enlighten and empower individuals, families and communities to step out of the ignorance of conflict, violence and divisiveness into the light of communication, compassion and understanding. We will likely meet at one of the area restaurants and head to the Cultural Center as a group. The festival is free to attend and the films are always first rate. I will post more details as the festival releases them.
